Our Approach

It continues to be a priority for us to ensure that we work to prevent modern slavery and human trafficking throughout our organisation and in our supply chains. We strive to work to the highest professional standards and comply with all laws, regulations and rules relevant to our business. We are committed to improving our practices to combat modern slavery in our business by taking steps, as far as we are able, to ensure that there is no slavery or human trafficking in our business or in our supply chain.

Supplier Due Diligence

We have no intricate supply chains or multiple levels of contracting and sub-contracting. Our supply chains primarily consist of receiving services from student recruitment counsellors, IT suppliers and estates/facilities management services. Notwithstanding, we have a zero-tolerance approach on matters of slavery and human trafficking within any part of our business operations.

We expect all those in our supply chains to comply with our values and all contracts with business partners require prior approval. Selective and proportionate due diligence is also carried out on business partners and, where appropriate, our contracts have been amended to include an obligation on parties to comply with the provisions of the Modern Slavery Act 2015. We expect any entity with which we do business to have suitable anti-slavery policies and processes in place. These policies operate to build and maintain trust and integrity through a corporate-wide commitment to ethical behavior. We set out in our statements our values and approach to doing business and our commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business relationships.

Our recruitment and employment procedures include appropriate pre-employment screening of all staff to determine the right to work in the UK and no one under the legal minimum age for admission to work is employed. We expect all employees to conduct business with honesty and integrity and we have a zero tolerance approach to bribery and corruption. We also have a Whistleblowing Policy that encourages the reporting of wrongdoing, including violations of human rights such as modern slavery or human trafficking and which can be used to protect whistle blowers and report unethical conduct. This includes external party fulfilment as well as internal contact points. All reports will be investigated thoroughly and appropriate remedial actions taken. To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we will be providing updated training to our staff during 2023.
